Integrity. Excellence. Justice.

Barristers from England and Wales provide clients with high quality legal advisory and advocacy services all around the world.

International lawyers and clients may instruct barristers directly, without using a domestic law firm, in a range of international transactions and disputes.

Barristers in independent practice have low overheads and offer their services – domestically and internationally – at competitive rates.

Barristers act as legal representatives, but can also act as adjudicators, arbitrators and mediators.

The Bar is an outward-looking profession, providing services in an increasingly globalised legal market.
